SEYMOUR AND BLAIR AT THE SOUTH—REBEL TALK IN SAVANNAH—WHAT THE SOUTH LOST IN THE WAR TO BE GAINED BY THE ELECTION OF SEYMOUR AND BLAIR.

The Savannah (Ga.) papers say that the meeting in that city on Monday evening last to ratify the nomination of Seymour and Blair was very largely attended. Dr. R. D. Arnold presided.

Amid loud calls and cheering the Chairman introduced General A. R. Lawton, who said that for the first time since the Southern people laid down their arms he had the heart to address his fellow citizens. Now, for the first time we had a platform of principles and leaders around whom we could rally. It was the noblest, best, boldest declaration of principles ever laid down in the United States, and the demonstration here to-night showed that it was in unison with the feelings of the people. There was nothing that the South wanted that was not there. The military despotism which has held us in thraldom was there set in its proper light. For the first time we have a platform we can adhere to. We have a work to do which can be accomplished. We have leaders to represent those principles who will carry us out of the Slough of Despond. Peace has its victories as well as war; those great principles for which we fought and which we feared were lost may yet be achieved through the instrumentality of the ballot box. Success must be our watchword, and we must stand up bravely for those who are working for us. Will you do it? [Cries of "Yes! yes!"] Let us do our part, and in November let our friends see that the South, though long downtrodden, is ready to assist them in securing their triumph. He urged the people to work, and they would see triumphant those principles for which they fought.

Hon. Henry R. Jackson was called for and addressed the meeting. He said it was an occasion not for discussion, but for the earnest grasp of the fraternal hand. It was an occasion when every American, every Georgian, Savannahian—every man should be prepared to announce his allegiance. He came to give his heart and voice for what they were worth to the great American Democracy. Against those principles he had never rebelled. They were our principles in 1850, in 1860, in 1861, 1862, 1863, 1864 and 1865. In vindication of them the blood of our people had flowed freely throughout the land. They were the principles of Clay, Calhoun and Webster, the equally illustrious expounders of the people. We have never, never, never abandoned them. And now we are told by those who have returned to us from the North, that a convention has been held and principles put forth, and we are called upon to strike together for this common cause. The miscreants who had invaded the places of power already saw the handwriting on the wall. When the thunders of the storm shall be over, and the sun shall shine forth from the firmament, God grant that it may rest on a united country, and that that banner which we had loved in peace and followed in war, may float over a free ocean bound Republic."

REBEL VIEW OF FRANK BLAIR'S REVOLUTIONARY LETTER.

The Memphis (Tenn.) Avalanche quotes General Frank Blair's letter to Colonel Brodhead in its issue of the 5th inst., and says:

"For uttering similar sentiments to the above we have been denounced and called imprudent. Had the above extract appeared in the Avalanche as editorial, the political fossils would have raised their hands in holy horror and stigmatized us as a revolutionist. We would have been taunted with the worn out stereotyped complaint that such imprudent expressions injure the Northern Democracy and the Southern people in the North. But, strange to say, it was the publication of the letter, from which we take the above extracts, that secured Mr. Blair his nomination for the Vice Presidency. Thus it will be seen that the North is far ahead of the South. They are rife for revolution. They are determined that all the infamous and unconstitutional legislation of Radicalism shall be wiped out. The position which General Blair has taken, strong as it is, had been echoed by the Democracy of the North. This fact shows an intensity of feeling against Radicalism more bitter than that which exists in the South. In the Senate of the United States a few days since Mr. Morton, of Indiana, held up Mr. Blair's letter and characterized it as a proclamation of war. In reply the Northern people announce that the Reconstruction acts are illegal, unconstitutional and void; that they are conceived in iniquity and brought forth in sin and without warrant of law; that they do violence to every vital principle on which our institutions are founded; that they are arbitrary, unjust and despotic, and that they shall be wiped out. The soldiers of the North proclaim that they fought to restore the Union; that peace has not been restored, and that tranquility and fraternity can never exist under the Reconstruction acts, and that they are willing to fight for four years longer to secure a restoration of the Union. The fiat has gone forth that the infamous measures which an infamous Congress has adopted, solely to secure the Radical party in power, shall be disregarded, declared unconstitutional, inoperative and void, and the people restored to those rights and liberties of which they have been robbed. The people of the North begin to learn that there is no appeasing of Radicals. We hope the political fossils will survive a perusal of Mr. Blair's bold position, and in order to prevent their lavishing their usual censure upon the Avalanche, we wish them to distinctly understand that the above extract is not editorial, but the sentiments of the Democracy of the nation."

MORE REBEL MENACES.

[From the Mobile Register, (John Forsyth's paper) July 22.]

In Alabama the Presidential election is just opening, and it behooves men to think first and then to work. And when we say men, we mean the men of both the white and the colored races, for the destinies of both are involved in it. We start with what we regard as a postulate, and that is that nothing but an overwhelming Democratic victory in November, the effect of which will be to drive from power the enemies of free government, and the oppressors of the people of ten States, can avert a civil war in the land.

If by any species of chicanery or fraud the legitimate votes of a majority of the whole people of the United States are contemned and the Radical candidates are pronounced elected by the Radical Congress, the Democracy of the country will not submit to it, and will take arms to sustain the decree of the ballot box. This is the sentiment of the Democratic party, and even the New York World, which, with all its great ability and outspoken boldness on general political questions, has heretofore been fishy on this subject, in its latest number proclaims that the majority under such circumstances would be recreant to duty and ancestry and cowards did they not fight to maintain their political rights.

Now if civil war comes out of this conflict of political forces, the white men of the South can not be worsted for war and its terrors in their deadliest form are not comparable to the evils they have to endure under a perpetuation of scalawag and carpet bag rule. And here we may as well say that the people of the South do not intend to submit to that permanent rule result as the Presidential election may. And they have only submitted to its indignities and insults so far as they have been waiting for the good sense and justice of the American people to relieve them from it and restore them to their civil rights in the November elections.

While the Southern whites cannot be worsted by a civil war, which is certainly within the bounds of possibility, the colored people will be. As the late sectional war resulted in their emancipation, a civil war arising out of an issue to which they are parties would be the signal of their political annihilation. They, of all human beings on this American soil, are most deeply interested in the preservation of peace, and hence of all others they are most deeply concerned in the success of the Democratic party in the Presidential election. If the colored people by their votes help to give the victory to our enemies and keep us white men in our present condition of disfranchisement and outlawry on our own soil, they will forever make the whites of the South their enemies and let them look to the consequences. If on the other hand they vote the Democratic ticket, vote with their own home people, and not with strangers, vote to do justice to their former masters and give back to them the rights which robbers and scoundrels have deprived them of, then there will be peace and friendship, good will and mutual confidence between the two colors, and an assurance that full justice will be done to them in the free bestowal of every civil and political privilege which is consistent with good government in the State.

We declare our readiness to strike hands with the colored people on this basis of mutual benefaction. Let them be just to us while temporarily they hold the power, and we will be more than just to them when we get the power, which is as certain to revert to us as that the blood that is in our veins has never long submitted to be enslaved. And to white men it is to be said, that this is no time for thin skinned sensibilities and prejudices of a past era. Radicalism has put the suffrage weapon in the hands of the colored man. It is the interest of the colored man to turn it against the hypocrites and tyrants who gave it to them for their own infernal purpose. There is the weapon; we must go for it, grasp and use it—in other words we must make Democrats of the colored population and show it is their duty and interest to go with their own people of the white race, and not with strange white thieves who have come down here to use them and speculate on their happiness. There can be no happiness, progress or prosperity for the colored people of the South except in friendship with the white people of the South.

[From the Mobile Tribune.

Friends—Fellow citizens of Mobile—Comrades of the Queen City of the Gulf! Let us make one more effort in behalf of our rights and our liberties. If we are successful in the approaching contest we shall regain all that we lost in the Lost Cause. We shall be freemen once more. We shall be able to reverse the iron rule which has been imposed upon us, and turning that iron into brands of fire, hurl them back on the heads of the flagitious wretches who have inflicted so many foul and flagrant wrongs on our bleeding country. Once more to the breach, then—yet once more, and when the cloud shall have cleared away from the flaming field, our flag—the grand old Democratic flag—will be seen in all its glory, streaming like the thunder cloud against the wind. Let us then rally once more around the dear old flag, which we have followed so often to glory and to victory. Let us plant our standard in the midst of the field, and let us once more raise the war-cry—"he who doubts is damned, he who dallies is a dastard."

SPEECH OF EX-GOV. PERRY.

Ex Governor B. F. Perry addressed a Democratic meeting in Columbia, S. C., on Monday evening last. He gave an account of the course of the State delegation in the New York Convention, paid a tribute to Mr. Seymour, and proceeded to notice much more at length the claims which the candidate for the Vice Presidency, General Francis P. Blair, had upon the Southern people. The Columbia Phœnix says that when he referred to the famous letter written by General Blair on the eve of the convention, the audience could no longer restrain its feelings, but united in an enthusiastic expression of commendation of the principles therein expressed.

Gov. Perry then portrayed the misfortunes and degradation which, he asserted, would accrue to the Southern people upon the election of Grant and Colfax, and with great earnestness implored his hearers to exert their utmost endeavors to insure the success of Seymour and Blair. Alluding to the bill which had recently passed the House of Representatives of the United States, in reference to the count of the electoral vote, he designated it as the most infamous measure of partisan legislation which had ever been inflicted upon a people, and declared that its purpose was to count the votes of those Southern States which were cast in favor of Grant, and to exclude the others. Concluding this line of argument, he said: "If Grant be elected by the observance of this policy then will the principles and policy enunciated in the letter of General Blair find immediate and general application.

General Grant and the Jews.

Dr. Wise, the long time intensely Democratic editor of the Cincinnati Israelite, recently made a fierce assault upon General Grant on account of his famous "General Order Number Eleven." Liebman Adler, a respectable and prominent Chicago co-religionist, joins issue with Dr. Wise on this subject and submits his views in an able letter to the Illinois Staats Zeitung. We have not space to publish the entire document, but the following extract will give an idea of the amiable style of the whole. Mr. Adler says:

"There is no such question as "Grant and the Israelites." There is but one question, and that is Grant and the Democrats." It is a mere deception when Israelitic Democrats bear before them the Israelitic flag. I am a Jew, when Saturday, the seventh day comes; I am one on my holidays, in the selection and treatment of my food; it is always written on my door posts, it is always spoken in my prayers, and it is always to be seen in my reverence for my Bible, that I am a Jew. I fast on the day of the destruction of Jerusalem, and I mourn that catastrophe which befel my ancestors. But it is different when I take a ballot in order to exercise my rights as a citizen of the United States. Then I am not a Jew but I feel and act as a citizen of the republic. I do not ask what pleases the Israelites, I consult the welfare of the country. If that party in whose hands I believed the welfare of the country, so far as the advancement of human rights was concerned, was the safest, were to place a Haman at the helm of State, and if the opposite party, whose non-existence I believed would be better for humanity and my country, were to place a Messiah at their head, make Moses the Chief Justice and call the patriarchs into the Cabinet, I should say 'Prosper under Haman, my country, and here you have my vote,' even if all the Jews in me mourned.

Such a view of the case is nowise anti-Judaical. The Babylonians overthrew the Jewish kingdom, destroyed the city and burnt the Temple, and the ruins were yet smoking with the blood that had been shed, when Jeremiah called out to the refugees, 'Pray for Babylon and seek her welfare, since from now Babylon's welfare is your welfare.' The welfare of the United States is your welfare. If Grant is the best man for the Americans he is the best man for us Israelites, despite General Order No. 11.

But I am far from holding Grant as an enemy of the Jews. To-day no educated man is an enemy of the Jews. If Grant had in quiet or in peaceful times officially or privately, expressed himself concerning the Jews after the fashion of General Order No. 11, this susceptibility would be well. If any one insults or maltreats me I do not take it quietly, like a sheep. But when my own house burns and the Fire Marshal, in whose way I am standing in his eagerness to extinguish it, strikes me over the head, or in the ribs, so as to knock me across the street, I do not take it ill; and when he, with knowledge and courage and at the risk of his own life, has saved my house, and I again dwell at my ease under its roof, I forget the blow, I kiss my savior's hand, and am thankful for life. I would say you are not a very delicate individual, but you are a worthy man. When we recall that epoch of the war in which that order was issued no one will find this illustration of a burning house an exaggerated one. What a burden, what a responsibility weighed on the shoulders of the General! How many such military orders as that No. 11 had to be daily signed? There was no time to weigh words and polish phrases."

It NEVER RAINS BUT IT POURS.—An old colored woman going along the streets of Schenectady espied a little colored boy sitting on the stoop of a fashionable house, crying piteously. Inquires the good old wench: "What's de matter wid you, chile?" and chick answers: "De matters nuff. Trouble, trouble all ober dis house. Fader am drunk, mudder am gone home wid de close, sis broke de looking glass wid de broom stick, the baby hab got his eyes full ob cayan pepper, and little Pete Wook put de mustard on de hair for goose grease. I put salt in my tea for de white sugar when they has won Professor Hannibal comes to see her, and it make me sea sick. De dog licked Pete's face and got his mouf full ob mustard, and has under de bed a howlin. De kitten got her head in de milk pot and I cut her head off to save de pitcher, and den I had to brak the pitcher to get de head out, and de way I'll get licked when mudder cums home for settin' the bed afire will be a sin."

COFFEE CAKES.—Take some rice that has been boiled soft, twice as much flour as rice, a little fine Indian meal and a little yeast. Mix it with cold water and let it rise over night; this will make a very fine biscuit for breakfast.

Jennie C. Burckhart died in Chicago lately from swallowing the point of a needle which broke off while she was picking her teeth with it.

Who They Were.

The New York World published personal notes of the members of the New York Convention which nominated Seymour and Blair under headings such as "The Men on whom the Republic relies for Salvation—Their Record of Service to the Nation." Here are a few of these personal notes:

SOUTH CAROLINA.

J. L. Clingman was United States Senator in 1851 and afterwards a Confederate Brigadier.

W. L. Cox was always a Democrat, never held any civil position in the State, but was a C. S. Brigadier General.

General Wade Hampton heads the delegation. He was one of the most prominent cavalry Generals on the Southern side during the war. He is unquestionably the leading man in South Carolina, and fills more nearly than any other the place left vacant by Calhoun in the hearts of the whole people.

Colonel Charles H. Simonton is a distinguished lawyer of Charleston. He commanded the Twenty-fifth South Carolina Volunteers during the war, and was the Speaker of the last white House of Representatives.

Gen. J. B. Kershaw, late Major-General in the Confederate army.

Gen. Milledge L. Bonham, ex-member United States Congress, late Brigadier-General in the Confederate army.

Colonel M. W. Gary commanded Hampton Legion during the war.

NORTH CAROLINA.

John F. Hoke, always a Democrat, and was State Adjutant-General during the war.

Chas. W. Ransom, old line Whig, was a Confederate brigadier, and ex-Attorney-General of the State.

D. M. Carter was a colonel and [illegible] judge in the "Corps Court" of Stonewall Jackson's command, and an old line Whig, [illegible] for years in the Legislature.

W. N. H. Smith, old line Whig, was in the U. S. House of Representatives for [illegible] years prior to 1850, and afterwards in the Confederate House.

Z. B. Vance was in the United States Congress in 1861, then a Confederate Colonel, and then Governor of the State.

J. M. Leach was a member of the United States and afterward the Confederate Congress.

W. J. Green is a young [illegible] never in political life; was a [illegible] Major.

ALABAMA.

J. T. Holtzclaw is a young lawyer of Montgomery, always a Democrat, [illegible] C. S. service as captain, fought [illegible] battle in the West, [illegible] to the [illegible] of the war, was [illegible] to the rank of brigadier.

W. C. Oates was a colonel of [illegible] Infantry, lost an arm in the [illegible] always a Democrat, and is a [illegible] and influence.

John A. Winston, an [illegible] merchant at Mobile, was an old line Whig, supported Douglas in 1860, and [illegible] of the [illegible]

James H. Clanton [illegible] Democratic State [illegible] old line Whig, Douglas elector, and was a strong Union man up to the [illegible] of the [illegible] of sec. [illegible] During the war a [illegible] of cavalry in the C. [illegible]

R. C. Scott, Jr., from Wilcox [illegible] an old Union man, was in the C[illegible] Congress.

Wm. M. Lowe is a lawyer at [illegible] was a Colonel in the C. [illegible]

James L. [illegible] was a Colonel of Alabama troops, was for Douglas in 1860, and a Union man prior to 1861.

M. J. Bulger was a strong Union man prior to secession, served as Captain in the C. S. A., though a very old man.

ARKANSAS.

A. P. Garland was a Confederate State Senator, and E. C. Boudinot a Brigadier General in the same service.

R. C. Davis is a young lawyer, served as private in the Confederate army from the beginning to the end of the war, and [illegible] the State vigorously against the [illegible] tribe on the Convention and [illegible] question.

And so on through the list! These are the men who, according to the World—a Democratic paper—nominated Seymour and Blair, and who resolved that General Grant was not fit to be President. This record, made by the World, is its own best comment. Let the people know who oppose Grant and who support Seymour.

HAUNTED HOUSE IN NEW YORK.—One of the elegant residences in Fifth avenue, in the vicinity of Eleventh street, is a brown stone front, standing a little back from the street, and differing from its fellows only in the general air of quiet and [illegible] tion which surrounds it. For more than thirteen years that house has not been opened to admit the light of day, much less a human visitor. For more than thirteen years, doors, windows and blinds have been locked and sealed. Externally, the house looks little unlike any other Fifth avenue [illegible] deserted for the season; within, a different state of affairs must exist, as not a single article of furniture, nothing of value, was removed when it was closed in 1854. The story of its desertion is a sad, though brief one. In the spring of 1854, its owner (a prosperous merchant) sent his wife and [illegible] to Europe, intending to follow them in August, and make the tour of the Continent. Meantime, he continued to reside in town during the hot summer months, being deeply engrossed in business. Even the appearance of that most dreadful of scourges, the Asiatic cholera, could not frighten him from his counting-room and his Fifth avenue home. One day he attended to business as usual, at night he went home feeling a little unwell; at midnight, was dead. Two days after, the body was carried forth for burial, and the doors which closed after the funeral party have never been reopened. The absent wife was [illegible] broken at her loss, and shrank so from [illegible] to revive the associations of the [illegible] that she has never returned from Europe, and gave orders that the house should remain [illegible] says, however, that within the [illegible] days, lights have been shining through the windows, and strange unnatural noises have been heard. A gentleman passing the house at the witching hour of 12 a few nights since, asserts that he heard music, and plainly distinguished the notes of the Dead March. Another party solemnly avers that he has seen strange figures in white garments, flitting past the windows, and that all the blinds were thrown open. Other stories, equally improbable, are told, and the immediate neighborhood is being worked into a state of high excitement.

DIFFICULTIES OF IMPUDENCE.—Many a man being extremely sensible that modesty is prejudicial to him in making a fortune, has resolved to be impudent and put a bold face upon the matter; but it is observable that such people have seldom succeeded in the attempt, but have been obliged to relapse into their primitive modesty. Nothing carries a man through the world like a genuine natural impudence. Its counterfeit is good for nothing, nor can never support itself. In any other attempt whatever fails a man commits and is sensible of, he is so much nearer his end. But when endeavors at impudence if he ever failed in the attempt, the remembrance of that failure will make him blush, and will infallibly disconcert him; after which his blush is a cause for new blushes till he is found out to be an arrant cheat and a vain pretender to impudence.

During Buchanan's administration an office seeker applied to John Van Buren for his "influence," saying: "The fact is, Mr. Van Buren, not being a time-server, I have no friends at Washington, and my only help is God and you." "Then," replied John, "your case is indeed desperate, for you couldn't mention another two who have so little influence with the Administration."

Mrs. Partington has been reading the health officer's weekly reports and thinks that "Total" must be an awful malignant disease, since so many die of it as all the rest put together.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE

GARDINER August 11 1868

For several miles below Scottsburg the Umpqua river is walled in by a rugged majesty of rocks. The craggy steeps rise almost perpendicular from the water to a very great height, leaving no alluvial lands along the stream. Yet these precipitous mountain sides in most places bear considerable timber, and toppling trees, twining their roots with stone, are growing where the foot of man would tremble could it reach them. Gradually approaching the mouth of the river the mountain wall recedes from the stream and diminishes its altitude, and though the country looks forbidding for settlement, yet the time will come when the timber in many places will be cleared off and the land brought into cultivation. The tide is felt in the Umpqua river for a distance of thirty miles, and all travel follows its ebb and flow. About ten miles from the ocean Smith's river enters the Umpqua from the north. This so called river is properly a tide slough, though in winter it discharges a considerable volume of fresh water. On its banks are some fine alluvial lands, and twelve or fifteen families have so far, found homes there. On the south side of the Umpqua, nearly abreast of Smith's river, an tributary of a very similar character enters. No settlers have yet fixed their habitations on its banks. These two tide reaches are exceedingly tortuous in their course inland. The banks abound in good timber and from the forests of Smith's river the Gardiner saw mills are mainly supplied. Most of the settlers in these localities have been here a number of years. They came in when the country promised soon to fill up with an active, prosperous population, and like good, persevering citizens, they appear to be determined to hold on. Although this part of the country is entirely covered with forests, yet the work of establishing a home here is quite a different thing from fixing a settlement at Martin Chuzzlewit's Eden, for there can be no more healthful place in the world than here. Had Eden possessed the clear, sparkling water and the pure, bracing air of this region, Mark Tapley would never have had a chance "to come out strong" and show what it was to be "jolly" under adverse circumstances. He would never have been sick and he would have had no opportunity to show what stuff he was made of.

Gardiner is situated on the north bank of the river, about eighteen miles below Scottsburg and [illegible] from the ocean. It is a tidy little village, and owes its existence chiefly to the saw mills [illegible]. About twenty men find [illegible] in the mills, and quite a number besides are engaged in furnishing logs for the saws. This establishment was erected in 1864. It is kept in operation only by day, and cuts about 20,000 feet every twelve hours. No better lumber is produced on the coast than that made at these mills. The logs are worked up close, all the slabs and refuse lumber being cut into lath. The establishment is not so large as some others, but there is none more complete in its arrangements. It creates quite a business for the lower part of the Umpqua river, and gives a lively appearance to a stretch of country which would otherwise seem quite dead and deserted. There are quite a number of families in Gardiner, and their dwellings have a neat and tasteful appearance which might be imitated with advantage in larger places. The saw mills are owned by A. M. Simpson, the proprietor of the large mills at Coos Bay.

Umpqua City, seven miles below here, is entirely deserted—unless the cormorant and the [illegible] it. It is known as a post office, but even the postmaster lives on the opposite side of the river. Several buildings still grace the site of the town, but no human being is there to occupy them. The town was started when it was supposed that this section had a prosperous future immediately before it. At that time public attention was largely attracted to this river as a thoroughfare to the interior, and some of the leading men of Oregon "got their start" here. Expectations then formed in regard to the growth of the country and the direction of trade failed, as such expectations had often failed before and will as often fail again. S

The annual session of the Teachers' Institute for Marion county was held last week at Jefferson. Forty-five members were in attendance and twenty-nine new names were added to the rolls. The officers elected for the ensuing year were, W. T. Ramsey, President; Mary A. Robinson, Vice-President; J. M. C[illegible], Secretary; Miss Lucy E. Hay, Treasurer. In view of the vacancy in the office of County School Superintendent, occasioned by the resignation of Mr. L. J. Powell, the Institute recommended Mr. W. T. Ramsey for appointment to that office. Messrs. T. S. Leonard, Wm. Simpson and M. F. Jones constitute the Executive Committee for the ensuing year. Wm. P. L. Price, Miss Belle Malloy, Messrs. Mattoon, Smith and Doane were appointed the Board of Examiners. It was resolved, "That in the future as in the past, we urge upon our legislators a more thorough and liberal [illegible] of instruction." The next annual session—the ninth—will be held at Salem.

In 1860, Gen. F. P. Blair pronounced the Democratic party "the most miserable and corrupt party that ever existed." It has been running on a steep down grade ever since. The "Blair family" is the meanest and most miserable element that ever attached itself to any party and Frank Blair is said to be the meanest of the family. He and the Democratic party are, therefore, fitly associated.

We learn that the party of gentlemen mentioned in Dr. Loryea's letter in another column, as intending to make an overland visit to Oregon this summer, started on Saturday the 8th inst. Mr. S. B. Parrish, who was then in San Francisco, received a telegram to that effect.

The New York Herald says: "So far as the State of New York is concerned we have no doubt that her 50,000 majority cast last year for the Democratic ticket will be entirely wiped out next November and that the State will go about the same number the other way."

Maine promises to give Grant and Colfax 20,000 majority, or more.

"Equal Taxation."

The National Democratic platform declares for equal taxation of every species of property according to its real value, including Government bonds and other securities. It becomes a pertinent query whether the farmers, mechanics, laborers, etc., are prepared to vote for a party which proposes to tax every thing they have got, horses, cattle, lands, houses, grain, hay, tools, machinery, manufactured goods, [illegible]. Taxation of every species of property, if it means anything, means that no more and no less. If the laboring man's only property is his wheel barrow, he must have that taxed as heavily proportionately like the rich man's thousand dollar carriage or three hundred dollar gold watch, according to its real value. The man who imports and sells foreign silks will only pay as much per cent of tax as the man who produces and sells domestic manufactured woolen goods, or the man who raises grain or wields the saw, plane and hammer. The man who makes whisky will pay only as much per cent as the man who makes bread. There is to be no discrimination between the rich man's luxuries and the poor man's necessaries of life. The Democratic platform proposes to make no discrimination in favor of those who delve in the soil or work at the loom, the bench, the anvil, adding thus to the prosperity and wealth of the country, as against those who enrich only themselves by draining the country of its gold in exchange for foreign made luxuries. This means free trade and direct taxation, a policy condemned by the people as often as it has been offered for adoption.

In their insane bitterness of hate toward the men who lent their money to the Government in its great strait, and in their anxiety to punish them by repudiating a part of what the Government justly owes them, the Democracy have fallen upon a policy which will strike vital stabs at every industrial pursuit of the country worth fostering, and which will invite foreign capital to come in with its manufactures and crush out domestic enterprise. Even as between the bondholder and the farmer, or mechanic, or laborer, it discriminates to the advantage of the former, for while the bondholder has not heretofore been taxed for his securities, the productions of the latter have also never been taxed for the purposes of national revenue. Now, under the Democratic policy of "taxation of every species of property according to its real value," manual industry is to be forced into direct competition with money—a policy never wisely adopted by any government, and always ruinous to the industrial masses. If we favor the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds according to the contract, it is because it is a simple act of honesty to perform what has been solemnly agreed upon. But to lay onerous taxes upon species of property which have hitherto been exempt, for the purpose of reaching the bondholder, is quite another thing. Honesty does not call for it, and good policy and justice to the laboring people forbid it.

This clause of the Democratic platform presents a question which calls for the serious consideration of those people who earn their honest livings by honest toil. Do they want to pay national taxes on their lands, houses, stock, machinery and tools, cent per cent, with the vendor of worse than useless luxuries? If not they must refuse to elect the Democratic candidates who are pledged to require it of them.

Political Items

Robert J. Walker will not support the Democratic ticket.

The New Orleans Republican says: "Put down Louisiana for Grant and Colfax by a majority of forty thousand."

In one of the counties of Mississippi the Democratic tradesmen have notified the white Republicans that they will not admit them to their stores.

The Democrats demand a reduction of the army. In two years it has been reduced from a million men to fifty thousand and General Grant says it will be reduced to seventeen thousand by July 1, 1869.

Among the visitors to Gen. Grant on the occasion of a recent serenade at Toledo, Ohio, was a crippled soldier, who extended his only hand, saying "I have one hand left to shake with and vote for Gen. Grant."

John Forsythe, of the Mobile Register, and delegate to the New York Democratic Convention, says: "Let the incoming Democratic administration only agree to keep its hands off and we will soon show which and what are the de facto governments in the Southern States."

Wade Hampton said in his New York speech: "I want you all to register an oath that when they do vote their vote shall be counted, and if there is a majority of white votes that you will place Seymour and Blair in the White House in spite of all the bayonets that shall be brought against them."

The Providence Journal says: The President in his message, vetoing the Electoral College Bill, says that some of the inhabitants of New York were in the rebellion as much as the inhabitants of Virginia. We suppose we shall be compelled to admit the fact, but isn't the President unnecessarily severe upon Governor Seymour and his "friends?"

The Douglas Democrats think it wonderfully strange that their standard bearer should be the same Frank Blair who denounced them in such unmeasured terms in the speeches which he made in Indiana during the campaign of 1860, when he branded the Democracy as a "vile, miserable party," and abused Douglas and Hendricks so fiercely that Voorhees called him (Blair) the "prince of blackguards."

A fire-eating candidate for office down South was asked his opinion upon negro suffrage. "Oh, d—n the niggers. They should not be allowed to vote." "Yes, Colonel, but about five hundred of them in your district want to vote the Democratic ticket." "Oh, ah! Yes—yes—very well." That makes all the difference in the world.

At Detroit, General Howard said, when speaking in behalf of the Grand Army of the Republic: "We fought in the war for right and truth and we cannot forget it. We fought against slavery and we still oppose that spirit. We fought for principle, and that principle must be maintained. By gones cannot be by gones. Liberty must be guarded with jealous care."

A correspondent writes us that the Democracy of "Egypt" had a pretty good-sized turn out at Mount Vernon, Jefferson county, Illinois, on the 18th. Allen, Robinson, O'Brien and others spoke. Taxes, greenbacks, bondholders, etc., were the themes discussed. O'Brien disgusted the ladies present by asking them whether the next generation of babies were to have white hair and blue eyes, or dark skins and wooly heads, and he insisted that they should answer the question. But they didn't. Thomas Shipley, of draft resisting notoriety, two others that were captured with him in his fort, in Wayne county, and a number of men formerly of the rebel army occupied prominent positions upon the platform.

General J. L. Alcorn, one of the ablest men in Mississippi, in his late speech at Holly Springs paid a handsome tribute to General Grant. He said the southern people owed him a debt of gratitude; that he had saved the nation in mercy, and when the South had surrendered her armies Gen. Grant had held in check the fiery wrath of Andrew Johnson, who stood ready to make good his pledge for blood and confiscation. He stated that twelve months since he had written a letter in which he had declared for Grant. He still declared for him as the only hope of peace to the land. Elect Grant, and all would be well; defeat him, and intestine feuds and internal commotion would continue in the land, pressing back our coming prospects, and opening the way to wider ruin.

Letter from Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, July 29th, 1868.

FRIEND [illegible]:

By the next mail I will send you a copy of [illegible] that Messrs. Corbett, Williams and Mallory favored me with to assist in inducing the party that I found here for the purpose of accompanying me to Oregon to examine into our resources for railroads and [illegible] manufacturing wants. If our information and [illegible] held out to them prove correct they will invest their capital with us and by continuing [illegible] measures within our State to develop the resources which will bring prosperity and happiness in our midst. I hope and trust our people and especially the business men of our metropolis Portland will appreciate the importance of this visit and that means will be instituted to receive them in a hospitable manner and every facility extended them to appreciate and understand our wants and recognize our resources which only awaits capital to make them yield an abundant return.

I have labored hard and succeeded in creating somewhat a desire in some heavy capitalists to become better acquainted with our State and people and consequently am anxious that my efforts shall be seconded by my friends at home. The party, so far made up now, consists of the Hon. P. C. Brinck, member of the Legislature of this State, Vice President of the National Iron Co. (the company who have furnished most of the iron to the Central Pacific Railroad) and one of the best railroad men East; Mr. Henry McKay, of the highly respectable banking firm of Cochran, Gowan & Co., who attended to the outside business of Jay Cooke & Co. Mr. McKay was the confidential clerk for seventeen years of Wm. Stewart, the millionaire of New York; Mr. G. Welch, son in law of General Hancock and considered here the best iron man in Pennsylvania, who goes out particularly to look after our iron resources and manufacturing facilities; General R. Winslow, the king of railroad men out West, who has just sold out his road to the Pennsylvania corporation, at an immense advance. It is the Terre Haute and St. Louis road that will connect with the Pacific. These gentlemen within themselves desire to invest their means with us if what we have told them is all O. K. Besides that, they will influence their friends, who are some of the most wealthy men East, to do the same. They do not come out in the interest of the Oregon Central Railroad, East or West sides, but come out to see Oregon, talk with her people, examine into her wants and resources and take hold of that which tempts them and bids fair to bring a proper remuneration.

There is another matter that I wish to call attention to, and that is the new line of Messrs. Brockway & Baker, from New York to Portland direct. Every Oregonian in New York united in a surprise party and went down to the ship, where we were hospitably entertained by the captain. She is a fine ship and well adapted for our trade. Messrs. Brockway & Baker have been induced to establish this line and assured that our citizens would patronize it and make it permanent. If people could only come East and appreciate as we do now, how California has obtained her reputation abroad through Oregon playing second fiddle to her, see the Standard, Vaughn, Salem, Brooklyn and other brands of our flour advertised as coming from California and commanding the highest price, they would all put their shoulders to the wheel and assist in breaking off Oregon as a caudal appendage to California and make our fair State known in the East. This can best be accomplished by exporting our products direct to New York and Boston and importing our goods direct from these places instead of paying the advance to San Francisco merchants. The difference in price of goods East and out in Oregon is enormous, no necessity for it, a big screw loose somewhere.

I have succeeded in purchasing iron for our road and ship all by vessel, will take it to Portland direct. Am making arrangements to have it come on as fast as possible so as to be in Oregon in time to be used as the road bed is finished to receive it. I have negotiated for this iron on the faith of our company and on an honest statement of facts as they exist. The parties have agreed to furnish what we need, trusting that our people will do what I assure them they would beyond a doubt and ratify our acts through their county, city and State authorities for such a great enterprise that brings untold wealth within the borders of our State and induces the advent of a portion of that great and immense tide of emigration that will flow to the Pacific, commencing next year with the completion of the Pacific Railroad.

Our party will leave on the 10th of August overland, where I hope to return to the genial climate of Oregon and get rid of the sweltering and oppressive heat that it has been my misfortune to endure while here. LOYEA

FROM IDAHO

From the Boise Statesman of the 11th, the day after the election, we get the following:

THE ELECTION—BOISE COUNTY

We have no official returns from Boise county, but it was currently reported in Idaho as the stage left this morning that Gray and Taylor's election for Sheriff and Assessor is very close. Shafer's majority is also reported at about 250. At Minnehaha, Shafer's majority was about 30.

ADA COUNTY

Besides the returns given elsewhere, we have the following unofficial returns: Middleton precinct 88 votes—Bransteller, 71; Robbins, 10. Dry Creek precinct 14 votes—Bransteller 12, Cobbins 2. Union precinct 51 votes, Bransteller 23, Robbins 28.

Several precincts down the valley heard from give the Democratic ticket a majority varying but little from that of last year. It will be impossible for us to give correct returns until the votes are canvassed by the Commissioners. Enough, however, is known to show that the Democratic ticket is elected without an exception.

OWYHEE COUNTY

We were unable to gather any definite election news from Owyhee passengers. All we could learn were rumors, and they were to the effect that the unterrified carried the election over the People's ticket—but as the returns were not in they are unreliable.

THE GENERAL RESULT

The very imperfect returns thus far received leave the election of Delegate a question of but little doubt. We estimate the majorities for Shafer as follows: Boise county, 300; Ada county, 100; Owyhee county, 160; Alturas, say 90. Total, 650. The northern counties and Oneida county are relied upon to give Butler a majority, but it certainly cannot be sufficient to overcome the above figures.

The Wilmington (Del.) Commercial says: "A gentleman of this city who was for some time during the war mustering officer of the Department at Washington, refers to a fact which was well known and severely commented upon by the officers in the volunteers. This was the conduct of Governor Seymour, of New York, toward the officers of regiments from that State. His disgust for the Union cause, or his personal feeling against the soldiers, or some similar motive made him the most tardy, unaccommodating and ill natured Governor of all the loyal States. In the matter of making out commissions for officers who had been promoted, his delay was so scandalous that many served for months and months as Captains or field officers, but for want of their commissions drew pay only as Lieutenants. By securing the personal influence of some of the New York political associates of the Governor greater promptness resulted, but when merit or the necessities of the service were the only recommendations, it was evident that the Union soldiers could not be included among the Governor's friends."

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial writes: "A staff officer of General Longstreet now in Washington, tells them that General Grant will poll the entire vote of the Confederate soldiery in Texas, and that with Chase as the Democratic candidate five sixths of the same would stay at home." When I inquired the reason of this the aid-de-camp said: "Our boys have faith in Grant. He is a 'square antagonist.' We won't get so many promises out of him, but more chance. We don't know so much about these politicians."

Colfax, Bross and Bowles telegraphed on August 11th from Benton, end of the track, saying: "From the end of the Pacific Railroad track, twelve hundred and forty miles west of Chicago, we send our congratulations to California friends on certainty of its completion next year, when we all intend another visit to your hospitable coast. Rails laid to-day over the Continental divide between the waters of the Atlantic and the Pacific."

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO AUGUST 15

Northern Capital Invested at the South

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—General Talbott, of South Carolina, with the view of showing the advantages which the Southern communities will gain by repressing [illegible] to existing political differences, is collecting data, showing the amount of Northern capital invested in his State. He says ten millions from the North are now employed in developing the resources of that State. The report of the Director of Statistics for June shows that the capital employed for the month was $[illegible]2,306 against $31,922,313 for the same period last year. It also shows a falling off from the amount in April and May, 1868.

Outrage upon a Woman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Merritt, who was but recently rescued from an insane asylum where she was forcibly placed by her relatives, was assaulted by two men on Thursday evening. They attacked and attempted to force her into a carriage, but her cries [illegible] ... quickly rescued and her [illegible] coming to her rescue the abductors made their escape.

Democratic Nomination for Congress.

ALLENTOWN, PA., Aug. 15.—John D. Stiles was nominated as the Democratic candidate for Congress from the district comprising Lehigh and Montgomery counties.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

LONDON, Aug. 15 (evening).—Further advices from Tipperary, Ireland, are received this evening. The agent of the landlord Scully was not killed as at first reported. He endeavored, on Tuesday, to serve notices of ejectment on several tenants in the vicinity of Tipperary, when he was attacked by a large body of them, including many women, and was obliged to fly into the city to save his life. Yesterday he started on the same errand accompanied by a large body of armed police. On reaching the hamlets of the tenantry, his attempts to serve the notices were met by determined threats of violence. The policemen endeavored to disperse the mob, when a fierce fight ensued, during which the police killed one of the rioters. Several times shots were returned by some of the crowd. Several of the mob were wounded, as were a number of the police. Scully was seriously wounded and the police retired unable to make any arrests. At this time Tipperary is in a high state of excitement, and further trouble is apprehended.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Dispatches received to-day from Constantinople state that a serious encounter took place at Pera, two miles from the city, between the Greek residents and Turks, in consequence of the violation of a grave. The Sultan called out Prince Mehedatos(?) troops to suppress the riot and they fired upon the Greeks, killing and wounding a large number. Many of the latter fled to the residences of the foreign consuls for refuge. The trouble was finally suppressed by the active measures of the soldiers.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Lord Napier, of Magdala fame, was present at the review of the National Imperial Guard to-day.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The fete day in honor of the inauguration of the first Emperor Napoleon was celebrated to-day with great pomp. All the officials of the Court, together with the Emperor Napoleon and his family, attended a grand te deum at Notre Dame Cathedral. After the ceremonies the Emperor left for Fontainbleau.

FROM THE NORTH

VICTORIA, Aug. 16.—The steamer George S. Wright arrived from Portland yesterday afternoon.

The ship [illegible], 54 days from Valparaiso, with a quantity of sugar for this place, arrived Saturday.

The steamer Constantine, which ran on a rock near Plumper Passage, about two weeks ago, succeeded in getting off yesterday and was towed into this port this morning, where she will undergo repairs. A portion of her cargo is badly damaged.

Grant's Political Opinions

[From the New York Tribune.]

The men who pretend to think that Grant is no thinker and has no brains except what McClernand and others are fond of declaring, also that he never had a political opinion and has no idea of the requirements of a statesman. He has never deemed it his duty to flaunt his sentiments on public affairs in the faces of his fellow citizens, but that his opinions on the great questions of the day have all along been both positive and sound, we are daily getting fresh proof. In Mr. A. D. Richardson's forthcoming life of General Grant there is some interesting evidence of this kind, of which we annex a few specimens. In November 1865 Grant wrote to the ex-rebel General Dick Taylor:

The day after you left here the President sent for me as I expected he would after conversation with his Attorney General. I told him my views candidly about the course I thought he should take in view of the verdict of the late elections. It elicited nothing satisfactory from him, but did not bring out the strong opposition he sometimes shows to views not agreeing with his own. I was followed by Senator Buckles, who expressed about the same opinions I did.

"Since that I have talked with several members of Congress who are classed with the Radicals, Schenck and Boutwell for instance. They express the most generous views as to what would be done if the constitutional amendments proposed by Congress were adopted by the Southern States. What was done in the case of Tennessee was an earnest of what would be done in all cases.

"Even the disqualification to hold office imposed on certain classes by one article of the amendment would no doubt be removed at once, except it might be in the case of the very highest offenders, such, for instance, as those who went abroad to aid in the rebellion, those who left seats in Congress, etc. All, or very nearly all, would soon be restored, and so far as security to property and liberty is concerned, all would be restored at once.

"I would like exceedingly to see one Southern State, excluded State, ratify the amendment, to enable us to see the exact course that would be pursued. I believe it would modify the demands that may be made if there is delay."

"I never could have believed," said Grant to a friend, "that I should favor giving negroes the right to vote, but that seems to me the only solution of our difficulties."

During the winter of 1866–67, while reconstruction measures were pending, Orr, of South Carolina, Brown and Walker, of Georgia, and other late prominent secessionists asked his counsel. To all he replied in substance:

Go to the Union Republicans in Congress and there alone. Have nothing to do with Northern Copperheads. They will never again be entrusted with power. The more you consort with them, the more exacting the Republicans will be, and ought to be. When you get home urge your people to accept negro suffrage. If you had promptly adopted the constitutional amendment abolishing slavery, or the one making negroes citizens and guaranteeing the public debt, Congress would undoubtedly have admitted you before this. Now it will insist upon adding impartial suffrage. The sooner you accept that the better for all concerned.

In the autumn of 1866, when the French were preparing to evacuate Mexico, General Grant wrote the following sensible and emphatic letter to Sheridan, then commanding the Fifth Military District:

"My opinion is that the interest of the United States and duty is to see that foreign interference with the affairs of this continent is put an end to.

* * * "It is probable that you may have an opportunity of judging the designs of Santa Anna should he attempt to send a force to the Rio Grande. Should his designs be inimical to the Government of Mexico, with which we are at peace, the same duty, in obedience to our neutrality laws, compels us to prevent the fitting out of expeditions hostile to that Government that existed in the case of the Fenian movement against our Northern neighbor.

There is but one party, the Government in Mexico, whose wishes have claim to respect from us. No policy has been adopted by our Government which authorizes us to interfere on Mexican soil with that country, but there is nothing that I know of to prevent the free passage of people, or materials going through our territory to the aid of the recognized Government.

Our neutrality should prevent our allowing the same thing, when the effect is to make war upon that Government, so long as we are at peace with it."

And within the present year Sheridan, whose opinion of Grant is certainly well worth having, wrote as follows to a friend:

It is, perhaps, needless for me to tell you how light my heart is on account of the glorious record in front of which General Grant now stands before the country.

The country now begins to appreciate that his was the only hand that patted me on the shoulder and gave me encouragement when I almost alone stuck up my battle flag at New Orleans to assist a second time in saving the country and preserving the record of our soldiers. Had Grant, Sherman and myself and others gone over to the enemy, much darkness would have come upon the land.

Two solutions were necessary for the settlement of the rebellion. The first was to take away from it its military strength. That was done at Appomattox. The second to take away its political strength. That will be done next November. It will be a short campaign but as decisive as Appomattox.

A [illegible] about seven [illegible] She says: If all the men were taken [illegible] made arrangements for her [illegible] She also says: Suppose all [illegible] in this country and all the women [illegible] a big river between them, good [illegible]

Ladies.—If you are afflicted with lassitude, if on rising in the morning you feel unrefreshed, with a bad taste in the mouth, a disgust for food, and a constant desire to rest, it is time something should be done to set the system right. We know of no preparation more highly adapted to all afflictions of this description than

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

For Mothers nursing, this great tonic should always be taken, especially when the maternal nourishment is inadequate to the demands of the child, consequently her strength must yield, and here it is where a good tonic, such as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, is needed to impart temporary

STRENGTH AND VIGOR

to the whole system. Ladies should by all means try this remedy in all cases of weakness, ask your physician, who, if he is acquainted with its virtues, will recommend its use in all cases. As a

it has no equal, while its pleasing flavor and healthful effects have made it a general favorite. It is free from all properties calculated to impair the system, and its operations are at once mild, soothing and efficient. All who have used the Bitters

THE CROPS OF 1868.—[illegible] Willamette Valley from all we can learn [illegible] show a far greater yield than any previous year [illegible] agricultural history of Oregon. [illegible] of land sowed is [illegible] than ever [illegible] able and the yield per acre [illegible] average. The weather for harvesting has [illegible] and in a few days [illegible] will all be [illegible] in good condition. It has been the complaint [illegible] that the farmers [illegible] paid for grain, have no margin after deducting the cost of [illegible] cutting, threshing and transportation. The facilities for freighting on the Willamette [illegible] by the low stage of water [illegible] the rates of carrying so high that no farmer can [illegible] make a living by raising wheat. Oregon [illegible] at less than a dollar a bushel or oats at less than sixty cents. As a class, the farmers of Oregon have heretofore and especially during the twelve years last past been [illegible] poorly rewarded for their labor than any other in our State while at the same time they have [illegible] the resources of the country and laying permanent and broad foundations [illegible] than, perhaps, all other classes combined. We trust that the great enterprise of building railroads [illegible] the valley will bring about the dawn of an era that shall witness the inauguration of a better state of things for those who follow this most noble and elevating of all the pursuits of civilized man.

THE FRENCH ALICE, AGAIN.—This vessel of which so much has been said of late is at last known to be in the Columbia river. On yesterday the Coach brought her up as far as St Helens where she ran aground and was left until the tide should come in to float her off. As fears have been felt by some of our people that the reports of sickness on board were true we publish below the correspondence between Mayor Boyd and Collector [illegible] in regard to the matter.

PORTLAND Aug 1[illegible] 1868

HON A. HINMAN Agent Oregon—Dear Sir: A [illegible] has gained currency in our city to the effect that the Jaques Alice, now lying off the Columbia river has on board a large number of Chinese who are suffering from the effects of contagious disease. May I beg that at the earliest moment after her arrival at your port you will inform yourself in regard to the matter and advise me as fully as circumstances will permit. In order that such steps may be taken by our city authorities as the nature of the case may [illegible]. Very respectfully &c

H BOYD, Mayor

PORTLAND, Aug 16 1868

HAMILTON BOYD Esq Mayor of Portland—Sir: In reply to yours concerning the health of passengers on the ship Jaques Alice I have the honor to state that [illegible] no disease appears to prevail among her passengers or crew. Your obedient servant A HINMAN Collector of Customs [illegible] AGAIN.—The Commercial informs us that we think the salary of the Street Commissioner too high. Not at all. We believe that to fulfill the duties of the office well and to the extent which the size of our city [illegible] the amount paid is by no means in proportion [illegible] other officers of the Corporation. Nor did we chide the present incumbent for a lack of diligence [illegible] But Ordinance No. 302 provides, that in case the owners or occupants of any lot adjoining any [illegible] street shall fail to clean the street adjoining such lot, it shall be the duty of the Street Commissioner [illegible] the same at the owner's or occupant's expense. Now there are several miles of improved streets in the city, and it would be more than one man could [illegible], to see every day that none of these streets are [illegible] or that no filth is deposited upon them. We do not think the trouble to which we alluded would be [illegible] by paying higher salaries but the fault is, perhaps, in [illegible] too much work of one officer. Besides, the [illegible] of the city only requires the cleaning of the [illegible] every Saturday whereas in some instances [illegible] early in the week and become [illegible] the day on which persons are compelled to [illegible] them come round. But these matters [illegible] that a more efficient system [illegible] be provided as that which we [illegible] have [illegible] defective as it fails to secure the amount of [illegible] which the appearance of our city and the health and [illegible] of our people demand.

[illegible] OWN TRAP.—Not long ago a piece of [illegible] to be sold at auction and a gentleman who [illegible], told some one he must have it if it [illegible], although $800 was a good price for it. [illegible] had heard of this and not liking [illegible] run the property up to $1,200 [illegible] not at all interested in the matter [illegible] paid $800 down and gave his note for $400. [illegible] in the course of events fell into the hands of [illegible] who ran the property up to such a high [illegible] lately threatened to sue, but agreed [illegible] if they could get two and a half per [illegible] was paid them for awhile. They [illegible] at with such violence [illegible] came to the conclusion to consult an [illegible] out to him the statute against [illegible] then his creditors came for their [illegible] them that they had [illegible] already, whereat they became [illegible] in turn beset him with such [illegible], that his patience was overcome. [illegible] fined for disturbing the peace and [illegible] They then became a little more docile [illegible] giving him his own time and [illegible] than the law allows. This was [illegible] paid the costs of the case before all the parties went on their way [illegible]

[illegible] every [illegible] leaving our [illegible] large number of raw hides to California [illegible] Cruz leather is an article [illegible] our market. Now Oregon [illegible] the manufacture of leather, and labor [illegible] in California. Then why not tan [illegible] export what is not required for our [illegible]. We notice this sending of coals to [illegible] is spoken of by the Victoria papers as [illegible] and detrimental to the interests [illegible]. It is to be hoped that the spirit of [illegible] will awaken our people to this and other [illegible] of wealth with which Oregon is so extensive[illegible]

[illegible], on Sunday, is usually very quiet, [illegible] morning the [illegible] of that part [illegible] vicinity of Oak and Front streets were [illegible] about two o clock, by a yelling and [illegible] by some inmates and customers of [illegible] neighborhood. We were informed by [illegible], that it was impossible to get [illegible] the hour named, on account of the [illegible] by these midnight revelers. A few [illegible] parties who make night hideous to the [illegible], would have a salutary in[illegible]

—Four iron columns have been placed in [illegible] Holmes' & Goodenough's brick now [illegible] First street, which presents a very fine appearance. They stand upon a square base some two feet [illegible] adorned at the top with tasteful [illegible]. The main columns are about sixteen feet in [illegible] buildings, with that of Ladd & Tilton adjoining [illegible] will be among the finest in the [illegible]

WHOLESALE STEALING BY JOHNSON'S PETS.—A letter from Washington dated July 4th says:

An investigating committee of the House of which Mr Lincoln is chairman has unearthed some immense frauds in the Second Auditor's office of the Treasury. It appears that a conspiracy has existed for some time between a certain number of clerks in the Second Auditor's office and those in two or three other offices of the Treasury Department through which bounty claims [illegible] for payment. The bounty for slaves was $100 and for free colored soldiers $300. These enterprising clerks erased the word "slave" and inserted the word "free" on the rolls in hundreds of instances making $200 on each name. When the change was made in one office notice was given to their confederates of the fact and the same change was made in each office so as to make the papers correspond and prevent detection. It is estimated that over one million of dollars has been drawn out of the Treasury in this way by these thieves. Some of the villains have fled and others are under arrest. It is scarcely necessary to remark that they are Democrats—ardent supporters of Johnson's policy and foul-mouthed abusers of Congress and the Radical party. The Union men in the various Departments who did not join the rebels when Andy went over and abuse Congress for the sake of eating the bread and butter of the Government have been gradually kicked out until there are but few in any of the Departments but Copperheads.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions the sale of which daily [illegible]. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. FAREWELL ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR PATTON OF ALABAMA

I M [illegible] the 13th [illegible] November 186[illegible] [illegible] Wm H Smith [illegible] construction [illegible]

In the [illegible] of D[illegible] [illegible] at Washington and elsewhere [illegible] These communications came from gentlemen [illegible] high position gentlemen [illegible] patriotism [illegible] judgment I had entire confidence and whose subsequent [illegible] has fully justified this good opinion. The substance of the information thus obtained was that if our State persisted in its rejection of the constitutional amendment [illegible] certainly be subjected [illegible] harsher terms. At the same time full [illegible] was expressed that a ratification of the amendment would be accepted as a finality [illegible] far as [illegible] ratifying State. All this was to me a subject of much anxious solicitude. Other States were rejecting the amendment. In the meantime while the development in Congress rendered it painfully evident to me, at least that the problem of reconstruction was assuming a new and most threatening phase. After much anxious reflection I concluded that it was my solemn duty to call the attention of the Legislature to the changed and alarming aspect of this momentous question. In a brief message to that body I suggested that it might be wise to reconsider our action in rejecting the amendment, and accept it as a means of averting further and more oppressive exactions. But the apprehensions which induced me to send in this message were not shared by the Legislature, and the rejection of the proposed amendment was adhered to. I do not refer to this in any spirit of complaint or reproach. The Legislature was composed of patriotic and honest gentlemen. To each member I concede the same honesty of purpose which I claim for myself. Still I hope to be excused for expressing regret that my feeble efforts in favor of a settlement on the basis of accepting the constitutional amendment, in December 1866, met with so little favor. I should never have favored such a plan of settlement had I not been convinced that it would have saved us from further exaction and that persistence in rejection would subject us to additional burdens. But the past belongs to history. There let it remain. As practical people we have to deal with the present and prepare for the future. How is this to be done? That is the question for us to consider. To me the path of duty seems plain. Alabama has vast resources. We have a rich soil a genial climate endless water power, and exhaustless minerals. Nature has been bountiful in her gifts to us. In order to become a prosperous people we have but to avail ourselves of the means within our reach. Let us cultivate our fields, build factories, [illegible] railroads, open mines, and [illegible] develop our vast resources. While doing all this, we should invite immigration, and extend a hearty welcome to immigrants when they come among us. Here we have ample and tempting fields for an indefinite [illegible] of labor and capital. With our many advantages properly made known, capital would seek and find profitable investment, laborers would seek and find remunerative employment. In this way our State would not [illegible] but enter upon [illegible] which will lead us on to real [illegible]. As for the present [illegible] favorable prospect for an [illegible]. The product of cotton will, [illegible] 400 000 bales which [illegible] $40 000 000. This will [illegible] highly favorable [illegible] very great [illegible]

R. M. PATTON

INAUG[illegible] BULLOCK, OF [illegible]

Gov [illegible] at Atlanta, Georgia, July [illegible], in [illegible] of the General Assembly and a brilliant array of ladies and gentlemen. The following is his inaugural address:

Fellow Citizens, Senators and Representatives: We are assembled here to-day under the fostering care and protection of our general government. Through its clemency we are permitted to inaugurate a civil government for our State that will supercede the military power that has been supreme in our midst since the failure of an attempt to establish the [illegible] of separate States in opposition to the Constitution and Union framed by the people of the United States. The [illegible] that have followed a [illegible] of the allegiance due by the individual citizen have become a part of our history and need only be referred to when there may be danger of its repetition. We have good reason to congratulate ourselves that we have so rapidly abandoned our erroneous opinions and [illegible] under the benign influence of the liberal [illegible] we have progressed [illegible] ration to our proper place [illegible] and especially should we re[illegible] has been [illegible] that in the [illegible] of a proper [illegible] we have [illegible] distracted and divided [illegible] by the [illegible] of the national Executive to act in harmony with the will of the people constitutionally expressed. Only twelve [illegible] ago a number of citizens assembled in this city and formed a political organization in sympathy with the principles and the policy of a majority of the people of the whole country. To-day we witness what has been accomplished through the agency of that patriotic body, the Union Republican party. A Constitution has been adopted that [illegible] to all free and universal education, equal political and civil rights, and restores to us self-government. It should not be forgotten that this constitution has been framed by the delegates who were elected under the law which gave the boon in the irresistible [illegible] of the ballot. The wisdom and moderation with which this privilege has been exercised should overcome all prejudice quiet all fears and lead us to appreciate the justice of enfranchising the freedman.

With a territory of magnificent proportions unsurpassed in richness of natural resources we have but to apply ourselves to its development to reap a bounteous reward. By united efforts in the enforcement of civil law securing to every one the lawful expression of their political opinion and the enjoyment of the results of their labor, we will invite within our borders increased population to share with us the comforts of our climate and the wealth of our agricultural and mineral productions. Humbly [illegible] in the sustaining grace of the [illegible] of us all, I shall endeavor to perform the duties of the high position to which you have elected me, by a strict adherence to the provisions of our constitution in [illegible] a manner as to bring [illegible] us His blessing in a peaceful progressive prosperity.

I am now prepared to receive the oath of office from the judicial representative of the United States.

The Hon Ju[illegible] then administered the oath of office, after which Mr D Conley President of the Senate, upon the entrance of that body, took the chair and read the following proclamation:

"Know ye, know ye that Rufus B Bullock is hereby declared Governor of the State of Georgia for the term of four years from the date prescribed by the constitution for the commencement of his term. God save the Governor and the Commonwealth of the State of Georgia.

One hundred guns were fired and great enthusiasm prevails.
